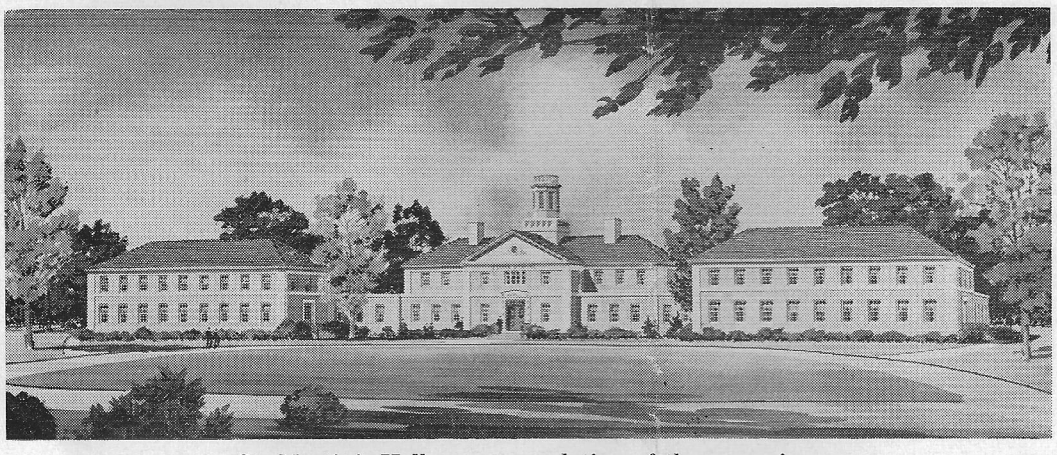
New Wing Added To Main Hall



St. Martin's Hall upon completion of the new wing.

New Dining Hall and Dorm to be Ready in Fall

With the arrival of the spring thaw, Lenox School expects to break ground and begin the construction of a new wing for Saint Martin's Hall. Over the last summer the Board of Trustees arrived at the decision to complete the original plans for a new school building by adding the West Wing onto the present main classroom-dormitory building. The Hallen Construction Company, with the aid of local sub-contractors, expect that the new wing will be completed and ready for the opening of school in the fall of '56. The building of the wing will be the biggest, most decisive change to be made on the Lenox campus since the construction of the present main building in 1939. The new wing, which will contain a new dining hall and kitchen as well as a dormitory for fourteen boys, will effect a definite centralizing of the school's operations which are at present extremely wide-spread. This will be a great advantage since the dining hall and classrooms are now at opposite extremes of the campus.

Dining Hall is Main Feature

The new wing, designed by Schuman and Lichtenstein of New York City, will have a dining hall and kitchen located on the first floor, with accommodations for two hundred and fifty people — one and one half times the capacity of Thayer Hall, the converted carriage house which has served as the school's dining hall since 1927. The move will leave the old hall in Thayer to be turned into a new study-reference library.

On the second floor of the wing will be provided living quarters for fourteen boys and a master. The basement will be taken up by four new classrooms and a much-needed extra large study hall. Since the faculty has been consulted about the plans, there might yet be a number of minor changes — all the laboratories set up in the basement, the addition of a dark room — but basically this is the way it has been planned.

Faith Pays Off

Even when the idea was first conceived, it was obvious that the cost would be the main problem and a very rough one. As the first step in the fund-raising campaign, the headmaster determined to send out a record ten thousand school appointment calendars. From the beginning the headmaster has said that he wasn't entirely sure where all of the money was coming from, but that he would go ahead with the plans with faith that the $165,000 goal would be achieved. So far that faith has paid off with $45,000 in contributions. $125,000 will be used for actual construction of the wing, while the remainder will go to equip the kitchen, dormitories and classrooms.

The feelings of the school community as a whole were probably best expressed by Mr. Rutledge when the announcement was made concerning the wing plans.

"Three cheers for the new wing!"

"NAUGHTY LADY" COMES TO LENOX

Sawyers Name New Daughter Karen Louise

Mrs. Sawyer with Karen Louise.

Christmas bells were still faintly ringing on December 28th, when shrill cries heralded the appearance in Pittsfield General Hospital of a brand-new daughter for Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sawyer.

Named Karen Louise (Karen because it is a good Swedish name, and Louise after her mother), the young lady is the first arrival in the Sawyer family, and the first addition to the family group since Susie, the sharp-eyed beagle.

Mr. Sawyer, genial basketball coach and master of French at Lenox, paced the floor at the hospital for about six hours before Karen made her appearance, and when he found out that it was a daughter, that she did not have any hair or teeth, even then he was undaunted. Handing out the cigars in traditional fashion, he beamed from ear to ear, undoubtedly thinking of the "salad days" ahead, and perhaps even remembering that wonderful six-hundred dollar deduction that Karen represents.

The new stranger has made her formal debut on campus, having been presented to the faculty at coffee, and having been heard from afar by the habituees of North Cottage. In fact, the great rejoicing on the part of the whole school is tempered by only one regret: by arriving during vacation period, Karen lost the school a possible holiday, oftentimes declared on the occasion of a new birth in the school family.

Our heartiest congratulations to the whole family, not even forgetting Susie.

Spaulding Made Prefect, Yearbook Editor

At the opening of the winter term, Pete Spaulding was appointed to replace Tim Smith as prefect. His duties now include those of the assistant job prefect with Dick Emrich, and of trying to maintain some kind of order in the midst of the third form dormitory in WABC. So far, Pete seems to be holding up very well under the strain.

When Pete came to Lenox in the fall from the back hills of Vermont, he showed no more promise than did any of the other one year students. Since then he has proved differently, however, and has distinguished himself in a number of ways. Athletically, he has done well in both football and basketball. It is expected that he will receive a varsity letter for his performance at end position over a rough gridiron season. On the basketball court, he is known as a snappy, alert defenseman, and has held his position on the big five during the entire season thus far. When the yearbook committee was organized, Pete was made editor-in-chief. The final product of his labors in this area is yet to be seen in the future, but there is little doubt that the Martin will be the finest yearbook that Lenox has had.

Kirkpatrick Applys to Air Force Academy

John Kirkpatrick

On February 7, John Kirkpatrick received a letter from the Department of the Air Force informing him that he had been nominated as a candidate to compete for admission to the United States Air Force Academy. He was selected by Representative Harold D. Donohue of Massachusetts, and is the second candidate from Lenox to be chosen. He is a member of the graduating class of 1956.

There are two series of tests which a candidate is expected to pass to qualify for his appointment. The College Entrance Examination Board Tests make up the first set. These include the Scholastic Aptitude Tests and the three Achievement Tests specified by the Air Force Academy. John will take the second set at the Westover Air Force Base in Chicopee Falls, Mass. on March 19. These will include a medical examination for pilot training, and pilot and observer aptitude tests.

Academically, John leans very heavily toward sciences and mathematics. He has long been undecided as to whether he wished to enter the Air Force or make engineering his career. The opening of the new Air Force Academy has offered him the chance to combine the two, and John wasted no time in filing his application.

John has been an active member of the Saint Martin's Society and was elected to the position of vice-president last year. He plays goalie on the Junior Varsity hockey team and plays tennis in the spring. He has a position as treasurer for the photography club, and he is photography editor for the Pen and Scroll; a member of the photography staff for the yearbook. He came to Lenox in 1954 from Worcester, Mass.

Headmaster's Column

The winter term is a great time in which to get things accomplished. The days are short and darkness cuts off the time spent outdoors; spring fever hasn't come to cut down our rate of production. Winter is the time to grind it out, which is probably one of the reasons why it is called the "grind term."

As we continue to step up the pace expected of the student body, we are gratified to see that the increased preparation pays off in college. The semester grades are now coming in on seventy-five of our alumni who are located in forty-five different colleges and universities, and there are very few failures being reported, and a good number of honor grades on the reports being sent to us by registrars and recorders. We are also interested to see that in most cases the college grades correlate with the school record so we know that our standards are in line with the best of the colleges.

We also note what seems to be a rapidly growing tradition, that after a slow start in the fall with athletic teams, we come along with speed in the winter. We have six school teams in action this season — three hockey teams, two basketball teams and the ski team. We have had more skating days than for the past ten years which is a joy since we have over sixty out for hockey. The basketball team has recovered from a disastrous season of a year ago and is steadily improving. The ski team is again at the top of the heap record-wise with no defeats in dual meets, and a second place in the Berkshire Interscholastics. What is of interest to me is the fact that we have an average of 21.5 boys per squad this winter which means we have many participants, and we are playing schools well beyond us in size in most instances. We are developing our own boys to be proficient at the games they choose to play, we have very few on the sidelines, and the spirit of all teams has been good throughout the season.

The funds for the new wing started well in January and we have about $45,000 in hand toward our $200,000 goal to be reached in two years. The alumni have responded well to date, some of their gifts have been most generous, and a graph of alumni giving will go out separately with a letter before the end of the term.

Finally, I would note that one more month will mark our tenth anniversary here at Lenox School. Words could not express my happiness and satisfaction and reward which have come as a result of the work put into this community, and the grace which God has bestowed upon us, and I look forward with eagerness and enthusiasm to the decade ahead.

St. Martin's Society Manages Skating Party

The skating party was the main item on a long list of actives planned and run by the Saint Martin's Society over the winter term. Couples came in from all over Berkshire County to skate on the Lenox hockey rink. Falling snow lent the whole scene a wintry atmosphere. After the skating, everyone was invited to the library at Clipston Grange for dancing and refreshments. This year's party was very successful as it has been since it was first started only two years ago. It is fast becoming a school tradition. All those who attended the party owe a great deal to Mr. and Mrs. Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Kennard who chaperoned the affair and helped provide refreshments.

The month of January brought two fine speakers who addressed open meetings of the St. Martin's Society. They were the Rev. Malcolm Eckell of Pittsfield and the Rev. Robert S. S. Whitman of Trinity parish in Lenox. Both speakers presented talks upon subjects gauged to provoke lively discussions in later meetings.

WINTER SPORTS REVIEW

Hockey

Although young and inexperienced, this year's varsity hockey squad has done surprisingly well for itself through the first half of the season. When practice started only a few short weeks after the end of football and soccer seasons, Coaches Gleason and Kline found that they had only three returning lettermen upon which to build their team. After three weeks of hard practice, uniforms were issued to the sixteen members of the varsity squad and the Lenox hockey season was off.

When Lenox took to the ice for its first game against Darrow, the team was under terrific pressure. Because of an epidemic of twenty-four hour grippe, no less than five men were forced to remain off the ice. In spite of the odds, the team was able to pull out a tie score. Bill Flaherty did the trick when he popped in a goal in the last desperate minutes of the game.

Pittsfield High came out on the bottom end of a 3-2 score, but they put up a great fight.

Ray Ferguson and Bruce Bennett returned from last year's team, to help the alumni team hold the score to a 1-1 tie score through three periods. After a nerve-wracking "sudden-death" over-time, it was decided to call it a draw.

Salisbury invaded the Lenox ice with one of the finest teams it has had in years. Sam Sammis and Ben Rudd proved to be too much for the boys of the Black and Gold. Final score: 5-1.

Berkshire school gave Lenox its worst defeat of the season. The 7-0 score was the sad result of a poor day and a strong opposing team. Williston gave us the third straight defeat and a score of 5-2. Lenox then went on a five game winning streak, defeating Albany Academy, Suffield, Darrow, Pittsfield High and Forman, one after the other.

As the varsity took to the ice against Hotchkiss, the team showed an amazing amount of spark and life. When it held the powerful opponent to a score of 2-2 until the closing minutes of the game when it was literally swamped, the Black and Gold made its best showing to date. As Fred Wood put it, "It was like playing against a machine. Each player knew exactly where his colleague would be at any particular moment." Near the end of the game, the team was literally swamped, but, even in defeat, the team showed a new life which promised a great deal for the few remaining matches of the season.

Basketball

A record of six wins and seven losses does not sound very impressive, yet to Lenox it means a great deal when compared with last year's 13 defeats and 1 victory. It shows that the basketball team, long the underdog in a school interested primarily in hockey and skiing, is at last beginning to take its proper position of prestige in the school. Every game played this season was a good game because every game taught the players something new. That Lenox may be the victor in the three remaining games of the season is entirely possible.

The opening game of the season against Berkshire School, was a great disappointment. While coming out on the low, low end of a 46-28 score the team still played a good game. The loss of Captain Kevin Buckley only halfway through the match made it impossible for the team to hold its own, however.

It is generally agreed that the first victory of the season was also the worst-played game of the season. Hoosac School played a very disorganized style of ball, and it seemed to throw our own teamwork out of gear. The score was 47-41 in a game which Lenox should have taken by twenty points.

In the opinion of Captain Buckley, the second win against Salisbury was by far the best game of the season. It was nip-and-tuck all the way, with the score 42-41 going into the last minutes of play. A sudden, driving jump shot clinched the game for the Black and Gold, however, and the two defensive men were able to freeze the ball for the last few seconds. Lou Copeland was hitting solidly that day and earned a total of fifteen points.

Watkinson was a high scoring game which Lenox should have been able to take. Kevin Buckley had 10 points in this game, with Spaulding and Larry Gill taking a great percentage of the rebounds.

The Round Robin Tournament, sponsored for the benefit of the March of Dimes, found Lenox opposing Cranwell in the opening game of the night. The Lenox team looked generally poor that night with Pete Spaulding being the one exception to the statement. The most notable thing about the Cranwell team was its terrifically tight defense.

Our match with Windsor Mountain School at last broke a five game losing streak. It was a good game against a lively and high spirited team. Larry Gill hit the basket for twelve shots and Berndt and Buckley scored 11 apiece. It is generally felt that the score should have been considerably higher.

Skiing

Lenox has a terrific ski team this year, just as it has had since Coach Shirley took it over only a few short years ago. Anyone who has followed the long list of Lenox victories as recorded in the Berkshire Evening Eagle can see that. It is rare, however, that one sees any more than brief mention of the individuals who make up a real team, instead of a miscellaneous collection of glory-seekers, and so this article will be devoted to the team.

"Sensational" and "erratic" are the two adjectives which best describe this year's ski team. Of the nine meets in which Lenox participated they took first place in seven, second place in one and eighth in one.

Our first loss was in the Berkshire Interscholastics when Drury High, who was our only close competitor last year, came out ahead of us by four points. The boys were below par in both downhill and slalom. Results in cross country and jumping, however, were quite good, with Mark Swann and Jim Hart taking second and fourth places respectively in the cross country. Bob Trotta took fourth place in the jumping.

To show off their new jump in Lakeville, Conn., Hotchkiss invited Berkshire, Salisbury and Lenox to participate in a four-way jumping event. Peter Ryan, Hotchkiss, was the outstanding man of the day. He took the first place position with little trouble, leaving everyone else far below in scoring. Mark Swann of Lenox was second and Bob Trotta, Lenox, was fifth.

The big event of the year was the New England Interscholastics held at Middlebury College. Kimball Union Academy took first place by a large margin. Lenox, plagued by bad luck throughout the event, came in eighth out of twelve schools participating. Jumping was the one bright spot on the Lenox score. Gard West placed fifteenth, Mark Swann took eighteenth and Charlie West was twenty-seventh. With better luck and the benefit from past mistakes the Lenox team could earn a real place of honor next year.

Glee Club Wins Acclaim at Northfield Concert

Two terms of long, hard work were consummated on the evening of March 10 as the Lenox Glee Club participated in the Northfield concert held annually at the Northfield School for Girls. The clubs participating in the concert were: Deerfield Academy, Kimball Union Academy, Mount Hermon School, Vermont Academy, Williston Academy and of course, Lenox School. The concert opened with the six clubs combined singing the traditional prayer of Thanksgiving, followed by Adoramus Te and Psalm 150, Cesar Franck's setting of King David's great expression of trust and praise.

Under the direction of Mrs. Spencer Kennard and accompanied on the piano by Mr. William Buchanan, the Lenox group went through four numbers. The first as Gordon Jacob's musical arrangement of Psalm 23. It was followed by "Steal Away," a smooth, flowing Negro spiritual. "A Capital Ship," and "What shall we do with a Drunken Sailor?" served to speed up the pace with a little dash and lightness.

"One of the long range objectives of the school was realized last night," said the Headmaster. "The applause was no longer merely for a small school that was up there trying to do its best, but for a really fine performance." Such praise as this from the Headmaster is as rare as gold, but it expressed the general feeling of all those who were there to hear it. The second verse of "Brother James Air" proved to be the only weak spot in the performance when several members of the club found that they were not sure whether one put oil on the head or the head in the oil. A few of the stronger members carried the line, however, and the mistake went almost unnoticed.

Lenox 3 — Kent Seconds 1

Lenox edged out the Kent Second team at Kent on January 31st in a close, exciting game. The first goal was made by Scofield, unassisted, after taking the puck away from a three man Kent offense. Nields picked a pass from Scofield out of the corner for the second tally of the first period. The second period saw Kent's only score on a shot from Griffin, and Nields, assisted by Scofield, made Lenox's last score. The third period was distinguished by several penalties, and was not as fast as the first two periods. There was no further score.

Lenox 8 — Hoosac 1

Lenox easily defeated Hoosac School here on January 24th in the second game of the season. Lenox played an obviously better game on both the defense and offense, but the playing was rather ragged on both sides, and Lenox scored six of her eight points in the first period. Hoosac notably tightened up toward the end. Scofield and Ferrera were the leading scorers for Lenox.

Academic Notes

Mid-Year Examinations

Mid-year examinations in all subjects were held at the School beginning Tuesday, February 3rd, and ending Friday, February 6th. This present system of mid-years and spring term final examinations has now been in use for two years. It is much preferred to the old system of final examinations at the end of each term.

As a result of the mid-year grades, the following boys were in Group III or above: Form V, Hastings, Toumanoff; Form IV, Bigelow, Mosser; Form III, Halstead, Kennard, Melville; Form II, Baker, Hawkins.

College Reports

Reports from our alumni at college continue on the whole to be very encouraging. Marks are not yet available for those at Harvard, but the others at their respective colleges passed at mid-years in all courses, and secured honor grades in over a third of the subjects. The fact that the general level is slightly better than the marks received at Lenox seems to give support to our hope that we are here preparing boys not primarily for examinations, so much as for coping successfully with the situations of college and later life.

Editorial

This seems to be a very fitting time to point out the dangers of mid-year exams, and so we take this opportunity to indicate them, not to the faculty but to the boys. It is most natural that there should be a slump in effort in school work after the mid-years are over, and it is excusable when it happens in a mild way. But it is a very risky thing to allow to happen. The danger lies in the fact that a boy slumps not temporarily but permanently. It is the easiest way in which to damage studying seriously. This is the way it ordinarily works. The average boy, the week after exams, is tempted to let things slide. He thinks that next week he will really start in to work again. But when the next week comes along, how apt he is to put off that effort for yet another week . . .

Paragraph Notes

This term a radical change has been instituted. Job and conduct marks are recorded as before, and each Saturday every boy confers with his adviser as to the number of marks received during the week. Graphs have been worked out for each boy, which indicate alike the total number of marks received and the present trend. Certain privileges which cannot be accorded to the School as a whole are given to those whose standard is high on this list; this including a much sought-after extra day of vacation. Every effort is made to substitute a natural positive incentive for a negative deterrent, and to stimulate the desire to cooperate. Those untouched by this appeal are studied and dealt with as their individual cases may seem to dictate. The change has been a very happy one.

New Boys

Two new boys have joined the School during the winter. William G. Davis, who has been at St. Mark's and John Scannell, who has been at Proctor Academy.

* * *

The Dramatic Club has presented two one-act plays, "The Third Angle," and "A Comedy of Horrors." Cleveland Bigelow, Louis Little and Joel Brooke are playing in "The Third Angle," and George Willis, William H. Cooley and Stuart Wyeth in "The Comedy of Horrors." The casts had been working hard, in order to have the plays ready by Washington's Birthday.

The Double Quartet also sang on the night of the plays. They have been working under Mr. Moxon all the year, and we feel that they will be very successful. The school orchestra played selections between the plays.

Barrington Dance

On the evening of February 14th, members of the Fifth and Sixth forms were entertained at a tea dance from four-thirty to seven-thirty at Miss Hall's School in Great Barrington.

Those who attended were: VI Form, Scofield, Tillinghast, Willis. V. Form, Cooper, Davis, Downing, Hastings, Mellen, Star, Whitman and Woodman. Rockwell, Thayer and Van Voorhis attended a dance at Miss Hall's School the same evening.

Saturday Nights

Three movies have been presented on Saturday nights during the winter term. Reginald Denny in "California Straight Ahead," House Peters in "Raffles," and Laura La Plante in "The Cat and the Canary." On Saturday, February 14th, Mr. Noble continued his talk on his trip around the world. This time he reached Jugoslavia after going completely across North America and Asia. The lecture was illustrated by photographs taken on the trip.

School Notes

On the evening of January 11th, Mr. Cummings entertained the Sixth form at his annual birthday party in his apartment. The party took the form of a high tea lasting through supper. The Sixth form presented Mr. Cummings with an electric waffle iron, which has since proved to Mr. Cummings and also to the Sixth form to be a most profitable gift in the form of many waffles.

One of the most notable of the scholastic achievements of the year has been the promotion of Kyril Toumanoff from the Fifth to the Sixth form shortly after mid-years.

* * *

It should be very gratifying to the School to know that John Melville has followed the admirable example set by other members of the first graduating class, in winning, after much hard work, a Hartford Scholarship at Trinity College.

* * *

Mr. Griswold has started a custom this year of entertaining the Sixth form at the Rectory every Friday evening from eight to ten. At one of the meetings Mr. Griswold read a very clever mystery play which he has written.

Quarantine

The School has been under quarantine during the winter months. No one has been allowed to go into any building in the village at all. The Health doctor who visited the School during an epidemic a few years ago felt that this measure would eliminate the risk of another epidemic to a great extent.

CURRENT NEWS

Alumni Dine at Boston

Twenty-eight persons gathered around a banquet table at the Hotel Lenox in Boston on December 9th for a revival of the annual alumni dinners in the Boston area. Mrs. Curry accompanied the Headmaster from Lenox School, and four other alumni wives were also present to add their charm to an altogether pleasant occasion.

Chairman of the dinner committee was Alumni President, Kimball Brown '41 of Marblehead; and senior alumnus present was Standish VanVoorhis '31 of Milton.

The complete roster was as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Curry, Mr. Roger Hinman, and Mr. David Wood of the School faculty; Mr. and Mrs. Standish Van Voorhis '31; Mr. Ransom Parker '33; Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Kennard '34; Mr. and Mrs. John Upham '35; Mr. Dunbar Dexter '38; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moseley and Mr. Kimball Brown '41; Mr. Alexander Porter '43; Mr. Nathaniel Sturgis '44; Mr. David Ellms '50; Mssrs. John Donaldson, Richard Wiggin and George Blaisdell '51; Mr. Charles Cleworth '52; Mssrs. James Cramer and Donald George '54; and Mssrs. Donald Marquis, Leslie Howlett, Bruce Bennett and Raymond Ferguson '55.

ALUMNI HOLD VARSITY TO 1-1 TIE

The Lenox School Varsity Hockey Team and an Alumni Team played to a 1-1 overtime tie score in the resumption of the annual match here on Saturday, January 14th.

Both goals came in the second period. A set pass resulted in a goal for Don Hawley of the varsity, and this score was matched by Pinney Colton of the alumni team.

With only seven men available, the alumni seemed to hold up remarkably well over the 50 minutes of play, and goalie Carl Liddy was credited with 24 saves. Ray Ferguson, the alumni goalie made only 16.

Ray Ferguson of the Class of '55 is at the American International College at Springfield. Donald Methven '44, who played right defense, works for the Coca-Cola Company and is currently living in Pittsfield. Left defense was held by Bob Kline '48 of the School faculty. Eddie Thomas '54 of Lee, who was on leave from the Navy, played right wing. Pinney Colton '55, who had just played for Nichols Junior College the evening before, played center position. Bruce Bennett '55 of Edgewood, R. I., played left wing. Relieving Methven and Kline at defense was Samuel Munson '38, insurance executive who has his office in Albany.

A five-minute overtime period was played without effect. William Carmichael '44, of Carmichael's Limited, Albany, served as coach and manager for the alumni team.

Class of 1944

Donald G. Methven, class agent, has done a fine job in collecting some news of his class. Don sent out a letter recently to all his classmates asking for information about themselves. The resulting replies were then edited by him and transformed into a three-page news-letter which he mailed out to all those previously contacted — and to the Alumni Secretary. As a result of this effort we have correct addresses now for all but three of this class. The missing three are George M. Breed, Peter G. Oldham and David G. Lynes.

Don is at present an engineer in the Quality Control Division of the Coca-Cola Company, covering all the plants in New England, New York and parts of Pennsylvania. His laboratory is in a trailer pulled by a red and white Oldsmobile. Home base for Don is Pittsfield, Mass., where he lives with his wife and two year old son, Karl.

Paul Tiffany is in the drafting and development section of the Sylvania Electric Company at Salem, Mass. With his wife, Joan, and two sons, Scott and Mark (4 and 2 respectively) he lives in a new home in Beverly.

Sidney S. Nichols is employed by the J. P. Stevens textile firm of Anderson, S. C. After military service, he graduated from Bowdoin College in 1950. In 1952 he married the former Marion Guest, and they now have a three-year old daughter, Virginia. Their home is at Greer, S. C.

Robert M. T. Jutson makes his home with wife and year-old son Bob, Jr., at San Antonio, Tex. A boxer and dachshund also share the abode. According to our information sheet, Bob is working for the Muir Investment Corporation of San Antonio, but he is also engaged in free lance writing and has a part in The Caine Mutiny Court Martial. Mrs. J. is a fashion illustrator, who is currently designing her new home.

William A. Carmichael is operating a tweedy, woolly business in Albany, N. Y., known as Carmichael's L'td. In 1953 he married the former Genevieve Caffery. Daughter Robin Frances is a year old. The Carmichaels are building a new home, but at present we have only the business address on file.

Nathaniel R. Sturgis was for nine years a book critic with the Harvard Law School Library. Recently he has gone in for raising cattle, first Herefords then Holsteins, in Brownville, Vt. Russ shows up faithfully at all Lenox alumni reunions and dinners within reach. His "city" address is still 99 South Ave., Weston, Mass.

Edward G. Williams has been named Assistant Trust Officer at the Union and New Haven Trust Company, New Haven, Conn.

David M. G. Huntington was married on the 3rd of December, 1955, to the former Mary Elizabeth Putnam, and is now living in Cambridge, Mass. He is placement officer at Harvard University.

Paul L. Reyes is a buyer and Merchandise Manager in Wilson's Department Store, Gainesville, Fla. He is married and the father of two children.

Theodore Blake is a Stock Broker with Orvis Brothers of Newark, N. J. He is married and has a three-year old daughter.

Russell Spring is a skiing instructor at Stowe, Vt.

Class of 1948

Herbert (Terry) Noble, Jr. was married last September 7th to the former Miss Mary Evelyn Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. King Moore Jones of Glen Cove, Long Island. The couple are currently in residence at 3 Keith Glen Rd., Glen Cove. (This was erroneously reported in the November Pen and Scroll as the marriage of Peter C. Noble '53).

Class of 1949

John Dinwoodie is enrolled in the College of Engineering at Duke University. Says he read in the Pen and Scroll that his former Lenox roommate, Craig Skewes, was at Fort Bragg and hurried over to see him — found he really was there, too. (Mirable dictu!)

Class of 1950

Colton H. Bridges called at School recently to chat with the Duchess and several of the masters, where we gleaned the incidental intelligence that he is now working as a Research Biologist with The Department of Fisheries and Game, at Westboro, Mass.

Robert A. Wenning is on maneuvers in the Mediterranean with a fighter squadron deployed on the U.S.S. Lake Champlain. He hopes to return to the U.S. in March and visit the School sometime thereafter.

Class of 1953

Peter C. Noble is still, as far as we know, a bachelor. We erroneously reported his marriage in the November issue, but it seems we had him confused with Herbert Noble, Jr. '48.

Class of 1955

John D. Crosier writes from Hamilton College that he has joined the fraternity of Alpha Delta Phi. Class preparations are taking up as much of his time as ever.
